This course is intended for both public and private fire investigators. It will cover the basic anatomy of all appliances, common failure points and what to look for when ruling them in or out as a possible cause. As a public or private Fire Investigator, our primary function is determining whether the fire was arson or not. And as a public servant, we are responsible for properly ruling out all possible causes, so that we can be sure beyond a reasonable doubt whether it was or was not any other cause before determining a final hypothesis; Arson or Not?

This course is designed for just that, giving you the information needed to rule the appliance in or out as the probable cause. If the appliance is the cause, this class is designed to give you information needed to determine if the appliance could have been intentionally set on fire. If it was not intentionally set, this course will cover what actions we can take to help prevent this from happening in other homes.
